

MONTANA

Mile High Mile Deep
by Richard K. O'Malley

Mile High Mile Deep may be the richest, most vivid first-hand account there is of life in Butte, Montana during the 1920s. If you are only going to read one book in this lifetime about Butte, this is the one. 288 pages, 39 historic photos, cloth $25.00

Sketches from the Ranch
A Montana Memoir

by Dan Aadland

Illustrations by Nik Carpenter

Today, Dan Aadland and his wife Emily live on the ranch built by Magnus Jensen, Emily's grandfather. More than a century has passed, but the nature of ranching in Montana is little changed. A stirring ode to a year on a Montana ranch. Beautifully illustrated, and lovingly told, Sketches from the Ranch bears poetic witness to the myth and reality that is the West.

280 pages, b&w and color illus., cloth $29.95, paper $16.95

Thomas Francis Meagher

The Making of an Irish American by John M. Hearn, Rory T. Cornish

foreword by Roy Foster

contributions by Montana historian Jon Axline

The first commanding general of the famed Irish Brigade during the American Civil War and post-war de-facto governor of Montana Territory until his mysterious death in 1867, Meagher's career remains as controversial today as it was during his own lifetime. In this new academic study, scholars from three continents fully chronicle the various aspects of Meagher's often colorful and mercurial career. This monograph is an important addition to nineteenth century trans-Atlantic community studies and Irish studies generally.

Darkest Before Dawn
Sedition and Free Speech in the American West
by Clemens P. Work

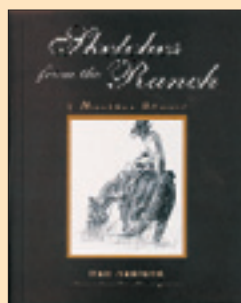

Darkest Before Dawn takes to task Montana's 1918 sedition law that shut down freedom of speech. It became a model for the federal sedition act passed in 1918. Work explores the assault on civil rights during times of war when dissent is perceived as unpatriotic. The themes of this cautionary tale clearly resonate in the events of the early twenty-first century.
